

Tavern First to Be Restored at Washington

The Tavern will be the first historic building restored at Washington, Arkansas. It was decided last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation. Replacement of this building will begin in the near future, officials said.

Some of the material and timbers from the original building, built in 1817, have been saved and will go into the restored structure. A Little Rock architect has volunteered to help with the restoration work on this building.

Officials of the Foundation are well pleased with the response that visitors and tourists have made to the opening of historic Washington as a tourist attraction. Every week brings more out-of-state cars into the little town, and officials are most anxious to have the restoration work well under way before next summer.

The state chamber of commerce has released a survey which shows that if a community can attract a couple of dozen tourists a day every day in the year, it would benefit the area economically comparable to acquiring a new industry with an annual payroll of $100,000. So far Washington has bettered this average.

The Tavern at Washington is where Sam Houston and others planned the freedom of Texas before launching the Mexican war for Texas independence.

"All we need is some more money," Judge James H. Pilkinton, president of the Restoration said last night. "If the people of Hempstead County realized what we are shooting at in Washington, they would give more than enough money and materials to restore the Tavern and other buildings there. It could be Hempstead County's biggest industry," he said.

Forgets Coin Collection in Meter Hassle

LEESBURG, Fla. (AP)—A visitor was so intent on getting a nickel in a parking meter that he left a satchel full of gold and silver coins worth $5,000 on the side walk.

He had brought them to town to discuss them with Carlisle Rogers, a coin expert.

The satchel was found by a high school student and taken into a nearby store. The store owner had been talking with the coin owner and identified it. It was taken to Rogers, who returned it to the visitor.

Rogers wouldn't identify his friend who, in the course of things, got a ticket for overparking.

Pilkinton Hits Removal of Road Signs

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Chancellor James H. Pilkinton of Hope today criticized state highway officials for removing road signs showing the way to Washington, Ark., and not replacing them with permanent ones.

But Walter Hicks of Camden, district engineer for the Arkansas Highway Department, said he had received a request for permanent signs only this morning.

He said the temporary signs were removed because they had been wired to town names signs at Hope and were distracting to motorists.

Washington was the Confederate state capital of Arkansas from 1863 to 1885 and was the place where the original Bowie knife was forged in 1831.

Pilkinton, president of the newly formed Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation said the temporary signs were set up on State Highway 4 and U. S. Highway 67 in Hope because "there were no road markers denoting the route to Washington and we were receiving complaints from tourists and visitors."

"The only signs permitted on highway right of way are those erected by the department for the safety and convenience of the traveling public."

"Our employees are under instructions to keep the highway rights of way free of other signs. Any one desiring to suggest a sign needed for the safety and convenience or guidance of the traveling public should direct the request to the department."

W. E. Cassin, seaman, USN, aboard the attack transport USS Chilton, is a local boy who participated in the Sixth Fleet's action that landed a second reinforced battalion of 800 Marines at Beirut, Lebanon, a Navy communiqué to Hope Star reported today.

Hope Boy in U. S. Landing at Beirut

Seaman Cassin, whose home address is Box 306, Hope Route One, took part in the operation which landed the 3rd Battalion of the 6th Marine Regiment. His ship was one of four comprising Transport Amphibious Squadron Two, under the command of Capt. G. E. Peckham, aboard flagship USS Peacock.

The drop was two per cent for the entire area, with sales dipping six per cent in St. Louis, two per cent in Louisville and one per cent in Little Rock.

Sales were up a per cent in Memphis and 11 per cent in seven smaller district cities combined.

The Federal Reserve Bank at St. Louis attributed the hike at Memphis to a change in the date of a sales promotion program.

For the four weeks ending July 12, district sales averaged a per cent less than a like period in 1957, while for the year to date sales were a per cent under the corresponding 1957 period.

Farm Values Marked Up by Federal Bank

Appraisal values of the better farms have been increased substantially by the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis to recognize the higher yields obtained with present day farming practices.

A. R. Fleniken, secretary-treasurer of the National Farm Loan Association of Texarkana, Ark., feels the farmers of this area will be better served with the new level of values. He stated that the Federal Land Bank loans, based on the new appraised values will provide the substantial amount of credit required in modern farming, and on a sound basis.

The Texarkana Association serves Miller, Columbia, Little River, Lafayette, Union, Ouachita, Nevada, Clark, Hot Spring, Hempstead, Howard, Pike and Sevier counties in Southwest Arkansas.

George Rawls, chief reviewing appraiser for the St. Louis district, Robert Earl, special reviewing appraiser for Arkansas and Thomas Porter, assistant vice-president of the Bank, were in Texarkana last week to set the new level of appraised values in this area.

Senate Not to Pass on State Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appeared unlikely today to act on a House-passed bill to protect state laws which parallel federal enactments.

This was the outlook despite strong support of the legislation by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and a sponsor of a companion Senate bill.

The House passed the bill 241-165.

Eastland declined to predict its prospects in the Senate.

The House measure provides that federal laws shall not nullify state laws on the same subject unless there is a direct and irreconcilable conflict between them or unless acts passed by Congress expressly say so.

Ike's Brother Given Better Reception

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — The strongest Communist agitation so far availed Dr. Milton Eisenhower today in Costa Rica on the third stop of his Central American fact-finding tour, but the Communists pledged no violence.

Manuel Mora Valverde, head of the outlawed Communist party of Costa Rica, planned a radio speech tonight on Eisenhower's visit but disclaimed any intention to stage hostile demonstrations. On his earlier stops in Panama and Honduras the special envoy met with verbal attacks on U.S. policies but nothing like the violence that greeted Vice President Nixon in Peru and Venezuela last May. Observers thought the Communists might be avoiding hostile demonstrations because the attacks on Nixon were widely denounced in Latin America.

First Account of Death of King Faisal

By WARREN ROGER JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took seven hours last Monday for the Baghdad rebels to seize and secure power over Iraq. And then, for the rest of the day, the mobs look over.

That was the picture of the Middle East's fateful July 14, as shown in a chronology based on the best available publishable information here. Officials informed on the situation assembled the pieces, some admittedly sketchy, this way:

Baghdad was sleeping. It was 5 a.m. and the first faint rays of another sun were just beginning to appear. Swiftly and silently, Brig. Gen. Abdel Karim el-Kassem led his 20th Brigade into the unsuspecting city.

Whispered orders. Detachments dropped off at the railroad, at the bridges, at the telegraph office, at main street junctions, at the post office, at Baghdad radio. Quietly and efficiently, the troops took over without firing their rifles or machine guns.

More whispered orders. This time, names of those to be arrested. Other detachments going around to the specified addresses, knocking and arresting, with orders to shoot if resisted.

In an hour the secrecy, locked in the hearts of fewer than two dozen men for two months, was no longer necessary. It was 8 a.m. The first phase of a classic coup was over. Baghdad radio blared the city awake with the news: "Citizens of Baghdad, the monarchy is dead, the republic is here!"

And then, the names of 15 men, mostly young army officers. The 12-man Cabinet, headed by Kassem as premier, and the three-man Sovereignty Council, the new strategy-making supercabinet, topped by Lt. Gen. Najib al-Rizbi.

A detachment, led by two officers, went to the royal palace. By now, a mob was gathering, mystified, curious, excited. With the mob trailing, the soldiers forced their way into the palace.

They were brought up short by the sight of their young King, Faisal, 33-year-old Faisal, a pit 31 strapped to his side, stood beside his 48-year-old uncle Abdul Ilah, crown prince and ex-regent. With them, rifles drawn, were two members of the palace guard. They were ordered to surrender.

Abdul Ilah, also armed, was disarmed. He and Faisal had arisen early to fly to Ankara, Turkey, for a Baghdad Pact meeting. Faisal ordered his guards to shoot. The soldiers fired first and the guards fired dead. Abdul Ilah went for his pistol. Another fusillade and both he and Faisal crumpled to the floor.

The King was dead. But the prince might have been still alive. The mob surged forward, kept a respectful distance from the King but seized the prince.

Abdul Ilah, a meticulous man who liked pink shirts with gray pinstriped suits and hated crowds, was dragged through the streets of Baghdad behind a jeep. His boy was hung on a building so all could see he was dead. The Kings' body was exhibited later, probably on a marble slab.

But the big prize got away. Premier Nuri Said, "the Old Fox," caught wind of the coup and fled to the suburbs. Angered, the military junta slapped a $25,000 price on his head. It was not until two days later that he was found, disguised as an old woman and shot in the back.

He shot it out and fell dead. His body, too, was hung in display. Continued on Page Two

132-Foot Python Arrives at Zoo

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Zoo has a new — and very long — arrival from southwest Asia, where he made his living munching on deer, pigs, chickens and the like.

He is a young reticulated python, snake measuring 132 feet. So far the python has not made himself at home.

"We are having trouble feeding him," said reptile director Frank Groves. He said the only solution has been to force-feed the snake once a week, not an easy task.

Virtual Ultimatum Is Issued by Russia, With England and U. S. Denounce Murder Rule

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospects for driving pro-Nasser rebels out of power in Iraq won today — barring some unforeseen development — as British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd resumed his momentous U.S. talks.

Lloyd, whisked across the Atlantic and into 7 1/2 hours of huddles with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles Thursday, set up another call on Dulles today.

"The White House announced 'a close identity of views' was achieved in Thursday's marathon scenes officials painted a bleak picture of the West's chances of ousting the Revolutionaries, who seized control of oil-rich Iraq Monday.

It was this seizure, Eisenhower has said, which goaded him into sending 6,000 Marines to Lebanon, where the pro-West regime has been battling rebels since mid-May. Britain ascribed the same motivation to its dispatch of 2,000 paratroopers to Jordan Thursday.

Eisenhower, with full British support for his action, denounced the Iraq rebels as ruthless murderers attacking a lawful government.

There was no sign, however, of any U.S.-British decision on what to do about Iraq. This, and the burning peace-or-war question of how the Soviet Union would react to any new Western gambit, were reported to be the basic issues under study by Eisenhower, Dulles, Lloyd and their advisers.

Jordan's courageous young King Hussein was described here as determined to avenge the death of his cousin King Faisal of Iraq at the hands of Iraq rebels following the slay of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

But British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan publicly ruled out any British-supported invasion of Iraq. He told the House of Commons British troops would not attack Iraq. Further, he said Hussein assured him British forces would not be used to free Jordanian soldiers for an invasion of Iraq.

At the State Department, spokesman Lincoln White declared there was no plan to send U.S. troops to Jordan, because it "does not seem warranted at this time."

That left it up to Hussein, as matters now stand, to go it alone.

Australian Sub Wrong-Way Ship

MELBOURNE (AP) —The Australian navy's pride, the new submarine destroyer Vendula, started on speed trials today—and went the wrong way.

Instead of backing away from her berth, the 3,700-ton destroyer shot forward by mistake.

She ripped through the heavy steel gates of a drydock, tore a 20-foot gap along her port side and a 25-foot gash to starboard, flooded the drydock with the destroyers Quikmatch in it, and gave the Australian navy a very red face.

Paratroopers to Replace the Marines

By REINHOLD ENDZ

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—An advance party of American paratroopers arrived in Beirut today to scout the territory patrolled by the U. S. Marines prior to relieving the Lebanese.

Headed by Col. Charles Pardale of Quincy, Mass., the 30-man group came aboard two Air Force transports from Adana, Turkey, where 2,000 U.S. troops are waiting for the country.

Paratroopers, from Germany, said they did not know when the 24th Division task force would be shifted from Adana to take over from the Marines.

The Marines and the British troops in Jordan sat tight without firing a shot. But the U. S. intervention aroused mounting opposition in the Lebanese Parliament.

The British paratroopers, sporting jaunty red berets, were welcomed by Jordanians, who fear the pro-Nasser coup in Iraq might spread to Jordan. They blamed President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, the Middle East's prime exponent of Arab nationalism, for the return of foreign troops to their country.

The United States backed up a move of more than 50 Navy jets. The planes roared over the Jordan valley for more than an hour. "To let it be known they were there," as a Pentagon spokesman put it.

Speaker Abdel Oseyran led the opposition in the Lebanese Parliament to the American landing, charging the U. S. action infringed on the nation's independence and sovereignty. Oseyran said he planned a special session of Parliament to consider complaints from normally pro-Western members against the U. S. intervention.

Such a debate could seriously embarrass the United States, which said it sent in the Marines at the invitation of President Camille Chamoun to guard Lebanon's independence and safeguard U. S. interests.

Emile Bustani, a pro-Western deputy in the Foreign Affairs Committee, said he could find only 20 members of the 68-man Parliament who supported Chamoun's request for troops.

The arrival of the Marines put a temporary damper on the rebel fighting against Chamoun, who the charges had been aided by Nasser's U. A. R.

The rebels have vowed to fight the landings, but they were cautious and cordial to two Marines who got lost and wandered into the sector of Beirut they held Thursday.

Sgt. Raymond M. Carren of Naticke, Pa., and Pfc. James J. Ward, a Briton from Northern Ireland who joined the Marines in the United States last year, were stopped by pistol-waving rebels and questioned on and off for several hours. They said they were given cigarettes, soft drinks and friendly treatment before their release.

Moscow to 'Counter Aggression'

BULLETIN

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union announced tonight it "will have to take the necessary steps" to counter "unprovoked aggression" by Britain against Jordan. It again demanded that the U.S. get out of Lebanon.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin warned the United States and Great Britain in a special declaration tonight it will not remain indifferent to what it called their acts of unprovoked aggression against Lebanon and Jordan.

It said in a statement issued by the Foreign Ministry that it will "have to take the necessary measures dictated by the interests of the security of the Soviet Union and preservation of general peace" against this "unprovoked aggression in a region adjacent to its borders."

The Kremlin at the same time confirmed in a separate statement that President Nasser of the United Arab Republic visited Moscow "in the last few days" and held a secret conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser said tonight the ore of aggression has ended and "Arabs are ready to fight" until the last drop of their blood "to preserve Arab nationalism."

Nasser addressed a crowd in Damascus Liberation Square a few hours after his return from Moscow.

By REINHOLD ENDZ
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Premier Khrushchev of the Soviet Union have gotten together for a discussion of the Middle East situation. Cairo announced today as more U.S. Marines landed in Lebanon.

The Nasser-Khrushchev conference took place Thursday in Moscow, with Nasser going there secretly after his meeting in Yugoslavia with President Tito. Until today, it had been assumed Nasser was still aboard his yacht, en route home from Yugoslavia. He left Yugoslavia Monday, the day revolutionists backing him seized the Iraqi government.

Nasser was reported to be in Damascus, Syria, today. Egyptian papers said he would return home Saturday.

The Moscow conference came at a time Nasser's and Khrushchev's delegates in the United Nations were joining in actions aimed at getting American troops out of Lebanon and British troops out of Jordan.

But the British-American buildup was continuing. Three more British battalions were ordered into Jordan to bring British strength there to more than 5,000.

More U.S. Marines came ashore in Lebanon. With carrier planes flying cover, the 1st Battalion of the 8th Regiment landed near Beirut. It joins two Marine battalions landed earlier this week at the request of pro-Western President Camille Chamoun.

This brought the total of U.S. Marines in Lebanon to about 5,100. About 2,000 U.S. paratroopers are nearby in Turkey. New warship arrivals swelled the total of U.S. 6th Fleet units in Lebanese waters to 19.

An advance party of 30 U.S. paratroopers arrived in Beirut under command of Col. Charles Pardale of Quincy, Mass.

While the British and Americans rushed their buildup in the Middle East, Saudi Arabia put a crimp in U. S. plans to fly tanks, planes loaded with oil from Bahrain.

First Account

Nuri's reported intention to President Eisenhower in Washington last fall comes back now with prophetic irony. "I am a strong man," he told Eisenhower. "but I am 70 years old and there is no one to succeed me."

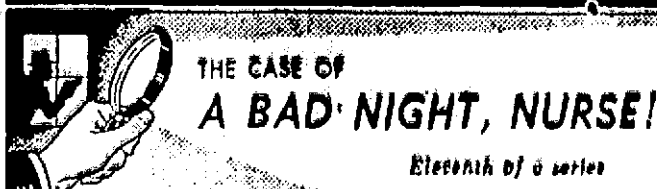

It was 8 a.m. Baghdad radio was pumping out news of the coup. Mobs demonstrated outside public buildings, the U.S. Embassy, the U.S. Information Library, the British Embassy. More army units were reported pledging support of the rebels — on the plains, in the mountains, outside Baghdad.

A fire broke out at the British Embassy. A British colonel was killed or maimed. The rebels blamed the fire on the British. They said the British were trying to burn secret documents and the fire got out of hand.

By noon, things had simmered down. Soldiers were everywhere and Baghdad radio was still talking out the word with appeals for public cooperation. All of Nuri's Cabinet were either dead, in jail or hiding out. There was no organized resistance. The coup had succeeded, after weeks of secret hatching outside Iraq — reportedly in Jidda and Mecca, Saudi Arabia, and Bern, Switzerland.

The mobs, possibly joined now by Communist agitators, spent the afternoon venting their spleen against real or imagined ills suffered under the old regime. About 8 p.m. a mob laid siege to the new Baghdad Hotel, to root out royalists there. Two Americans were killed, probably because they just happened to get in the way.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF A BAD NIGHT, NURSE!

Eleventh of a series

by Donald J. Sobol

The bulb hung directly above the upturned head of a white sports car. Through the open garage doors the dim yellow light reached into the night and illuminated the body of a man dressed in oil-splashed leathers, greasy wool shirt, and dirty blue jeans.

He might have been slumbering, except that his head was savagely crushed in.

"Roger Pratt, the socialite playboy," said Inspector Winters, "Mrs. Pratt's nurse saw the whole thing. It was she who summoned the police."

Inside the house, Bertha Tate, the nurse, repeated her story for Dr. Haledjian.

"I was with Mrs. Pratt all night," Mr. Pratt said. "She was not to be left alone. She's had a breakdown."

"About midnight I glanced through the bedroom window and saw Mr. Pratt step out of the garage. A woman slipped from behind those bushes and struck him with some instrument over the head."

"Didn't Mr. Pratt notice his assailant's approach?"

"It all happened too swiftly. As Mr. Pratt stooped to tie his shoelaces, the woman darted up behind him. I don't think he saw or heard her. I immediately called the police from the telephone in the bedroom."

"You didn't leave the house tonight?"

"No," replied the nurse, stiffening.

Search for Pair Missing Children

ORR, Min. (AP)—"We've got to find them today or there probably won't be much use looking anymore."

This alert was sounded today by Ray McDermott as he appealed for volunteers in the search for Francine Crego, 10, and her brother Michael, 8, missing since they went out to pick blueberries in this remote northern wilderness area at midday Wednesday.

The children were staying at their grandfather's remote Ash Lake cabin while their father Lyle Crego Jr. was here to help with some family logging.

RE-ELECT TRAVIS MATHIS PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

I am campaigning upon my own merits, my qualifications for the job and the record that I have made actually doing the job.

My desperate opponent from Miller County, realizing that he has been left far behind in the race for Prosecuting Attorney, has completely departed from the truth and is now seeking election upon fiction and false propaganda of his own making.

In an ad in the local papers and a speech on the radio, he made a series of false statements concerning a place known as the Hideaway Club which was operated by one John Burley Fugate and which was padlocked as a result of a petition filed by Travis Mathis in Circuit Court. Below we compare the fiction and facts.

Edwardes False Propaganda

1. That Travis Mathis granted immunity to John B. Fugate, an alleged gambler, who, for a short time, operated the Hideaway Club.

2. That a witness, G. W. Ripley, was produced by officers acting under the grand jury's instruction without the Prosecuting Attorney's knowledge.

3. The Grand Jury returned an indictment against Fugate on March 12, 1958, many months after the Prosecuting Attorney could have acted.

4. That the Prosecuting Attorney threatened to arrest the witness G. W. Ripley.

5. That the case still has not been brought to trial and that it is the Prosecuting Attorney's duty to get ready for trial and bring cases to trial.

6. That Travis Mathis was asked by the Grand Jury to disqualify.

FACTS

1. Travis Mathis has opposed the gambling interest at every turn during his administration as Prosecuting Attorney. Travis Mathis filed a petition to padlock the Hideaway Club, as a result, it was padlocked in November 1957.

2. Travis Mathis issued a Prosecuting Attorney's subpoena for G. W. Ripley to appear before the Grand Jury and testify. Travis Mathis arranged for the money to pay Ripley's expenses from Odessa, Texas, to Texarkana for the purpose of testifying.

3. The Prosecuting Attorney could not act without a witness who was willing to testify. As soon as the witness, Ripley, was located and persuaded to return to Arkansas to appear before the Grand Jury, it was upon the advice of Travis Mathis that the Grand Jury indicted John B. Fugate.

4. Instead of threatening Ripley with arrest on felony warrants that had been sworn out against him, Travis Mathis granted Ripley immunity from arrest by issuing the Prosecuting Attorney's subpoena, for him which automatically gives immunity from arrests on other charges.

5. Travis Mathis called case # 7495, State of Arkansas vs. John B. Fugate, for trial at the last session of Miller County Circuit Court and asked for a bond forfeiture when the defendant failed to answer. Fugate's attorney filed a motion for a continuance. Travis Mathis resisted said motion. The said attorney filed certificates of two (2) doctors to the effect that Fugate was ill and unable to attend Court. After a hearing on said motion the Court said: "That the facts justify a continuance of this cause for a period of not to exceed 60 days. That the prayer of the prosecuting attorney for a bond forfeiture at this time should, because of the facts, be held in abeyance. It is, therefore, by the Court, considered, ordered and adjudged that the above-styled cause be and the same is hereby continued for a period not to exceed 60 days."

Mr. Edwardes tries to leave the impression that Travis Mathis continued the case. Mr. Edwardes knows, OR SHOULD KNOW, that the only authority for continuing a criminal case is vested in the trial court and not the Prosecuting Attorney.

6. Instead of being asked to disqualify and step aside by the Grand Jury, Travis Mathis was given a vote of confidence by the Grand Jury and was commended by W. T. Murphy, Chairman of the Law Enforcement Committee as having properly discharged the duties of the Prosecuting Attorney's office in regard to alleged gambling operations.

The only State's witness who refused to appear and testify was a Phil Hardy, Jr., who lives in Texarkana, Texas, (a Texas resident cannot be compelled to answer an Arkansas summons) and whose legal adviser is Mr. George F. Edwardes. Up until Mr. Hardy employed Mr. Edwardes as his attorney, he voluntarily appeared before the Grand Jury. At all times after he employed Mr. Edwardes, he refused to appear and testify when I called the case for trial.

Mr. Edwardes has criticized me for drawing Clark County warrant No. 508 for $650.00 for a trip to California in April, 1958. This trip was for the purpose of locating and interrogating an important witness in a murder case now pending in the Clark County Circuit Court. A man's freedom depended upon this witness' testimony. It was my duty to investigate this case thoroughly as I do in all cases.

If I had drawn the fees allowed to the sheriffs over the state for such a trip, I could have drawn $300.00 more than I did. As a result of this trip and my investigation not only was a man's rights protected but the county was saved additional hundreds of dollars expenses which would have been incurred by bringing witnesses from Miami, Florida, Marshfield, Missouri and Chicago, Ill. as well as from Susanville, California. He states that I am allowed an expense account for such purposes. This is not true. The expense account of $3,400.00 per year is to pay a secretary's salary, office rent and other expenses including 30,000 to 35,000 miles per year on an automobile.

No doubt there will be many other unfounded desperation charges made by this irresponsible opponent who, in four previous political campaigns, has never carried his home ward. I will be happy to answer any charge, however wild, that he might make.

As your Prosecuting Attorney, I have administered our criminal laws fairly and impartially. I have established a workable program for our young people.

Edmondson of Ouachita at 1st Baptist

James Edmondson

James Edmondson, Jr., vice-president of Ouachita College, will be the guest speaker at both services of First Baptist Church on Sunday, Mr. Edmondson is a native of Alabama, a graduate of Alabama State College, and has done graduate study at George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., and Indiana University.

As a special service to the friends of the church who cannot attend, the morning worship services on the first and third Sunday in each month are broadcast over Radio Station KXAR.

UN Not Likely to Do Anything in Middle East

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) U.N. delegates expected that the Security Council would prove powerless today to act in the Middle East crisis and that a special emergency session of the General Assembly would be called.

Three resolutions to deal with the crisis seemed headed for obsolescence as the U.N. Assembly would ask for a special session. Indications were that once the U.N. Council had failed to agree on any action, either the United States or the Soviet Union would ask for a special session and the U.N. Assembly would meet in a few days.

The Soviet Union was pushing a resolution to demand immediate withdrawal of the U.S. Marines that went into Lebanon Tuesday and the British paratroopers who landed in Jordan Thursday. The Council was expected to vote this down.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the Council Thursday that if it was "paralyzed in its action" on his proposal, he would ask for an emergency special Assembly session.

The United States was sponsoring a resolution that would send a U.N. force to Lebanon to take over from the Marines as a backdrop for President Camille Chamoun's government. Chamoun charges President Nasser's United Arab Republic is aiding the rebel forces seeking to oust him.

Sobolev was expected to veto the U.S. resolution. U.S. sources said that the United States then would like to have its resolution taken up in the Assembly.

Swedish Delegate Gunnar V. Jarring introduced the third pending resolution. It would suspend until further notice the activities of U.N. observers the Council sent to Lebanon June 11 to insure against aid to the rebels from the U. A. R. Jarring argued that the U.S. landing had made the presence of the observers "from a tactical point of view superfluous and from a political point of view undesirable." His resolution was expected to get only two votes — his and Sobolev's.

from the President's office.

"The two leaders exchanged views on development of the present international situation and what is needed for the preservation of peace. An atmosphere of amity and understanding prevailed during the meeting."

The meeting of Khrushchev and the President of the United Arab Republic came as a surprise here.

Nasser had been reported sailing home aboard his yacht Al-Nusra after a 12-day visit to Yugoslavia. He left Beirut Monday, the day pro-Nasser elements seized power in Iraq.

Egyptian papers said Nasser is due in Alexandria Saturday. The Middle East News Agency said Nasser arrived today in Damascus, capital of the U.A.R. province of Syria.

The news caught Yugoslavia by surprise, reports from Belgrade said. Informants there said Nasser gave no inkling of plans to see Khrushchev, and in fact created the impression of settling scores toward the Soviet Union.

Nasser's visit to Yugoslavia was generally interpreted as a show of independence from the Kremlin bloc, which has denounced this as a traitor to communism.

Yugoslavia supports Nasser in the present crisis. Regardless of Soviet policies, Yugoslavia has tried to recognize the new regime in Iraq but made it clear that it

Mrs. and Mrs. Higginbottom Honored

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Higginbottom were honored with a house warming given by their daughter, Mrs. Raymond Hobson of Ft. Worth, Texas on Friday night at their home on the Cole Road. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Wells Hobb, Mrs. Lige Glass, Mrs. Morris Lee, Mrs. Clifton White and Mrs. W. C. Wooley.

Games were enjoyed and the honored guests were presented many lovely gifts by the thirty eight guests present.

Cold drinks and cookies were served.

McGinnis-Moore Engagement is Told

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vernon McGinnis of Tulsa, Okla., announce the betrothal of their daughter Martha Marilyn to William Britton Moore IV of Tulsa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellice Thomas Moore of Gurdon.

Miss McGinnis, granddaughter of John Dunlap Cornish of Prescott, is a graduate of the University of Tulsa, where she was president of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and is now doing graduate work there. She is now a member of the board of directors of the University of Tulsa Alumni Association. Mr. Moore attended the University of Tulsa and was graduated from Henderson State Teachers College. His fraternity is Phi Lambda Chi.

The couple will be married August 30 in Boston Avenue Methodist Church, Tulsa, by Dr. Paul V. Galloway, pastor.

Mrs. Linden Tanner of Malvern, sister of the bridegroom, will be matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Priscilla Sharp of Tulsa and Miss Patricia Hallom of Prescott.

Linden Tanner will serve the bridegroom as best man. Ushers will be Robert Parkhurst and Dale Davis, both of Tulsa.

Mrs. David Hanning

Feted

Mrs. David Hanning, the former, Miss Mary Adalyn Yancey a recent bride, was feted with a miscellaneous shower on Friday night in the reception room of the First Baptist Church. Hostesses were Mrs. Virgil Daniel Jr., Miss Alice Grimes, Mrs. Richard Bright and Miss Margaret Leece Phillips.

The honoree was lovely in a blue cotton chemise dress, trimmed in white with white accessories. She pinned a corsage of pink carnations at her shoulder, a gift from the hostesses.

A white cloth covered the gift table. A large heart covered with pink rose buds and net puffs encircled with pink crapes myrtle and centered with a miniature bride and groom formed the background for the gifts that were opened and displayed by Mrs. Hanning.

The serving table was laid with a maderia cloth over pink and held a central arrangement of pink sweetheart roses and carnations intermingled with wedding bells. Pink satin streamers extended from the arrangement flanked by white candles. Pink punch was served by Mrs. Bright. Miss Phillips served white individual cakes topped with pink rose buds.

Fifty guests were present.

Mrs. Underwood W. M. U. Circle 1 Hostess

Mrs. A. R. Underwood was hostess to W. M. U. Circle 1 of the First Baptist Church at her home on Monday afternoon with eight members present.

Mrs. Hody Butler, chairman, presided and conducted the business session. Mrs. J. T. McNeely led the opening prayer. The Bible study on Joshua was led by Mrs. A. E. Evans.

Ice cream and cake was served by the hostess during the social hour.

Presbyterian General Meeting Held

The monthly general meeting of the Women of the Presbyterian Church was held on Monday afternoon in the McRae Memorial Room.

The meeting was called to order with prayer by the president, Mrs. C. H. Moore. The minutes of the June meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Carl Dairymple. Mrs. Thomas Hemis, treasurer, reported financial statement. Reports of other general officers and chairmen were heard.

Mrs. Joe H. Hamilton presented the program on the theme "The Church: Priesthood of Believers." The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Moore.

Faubus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Orval Faubus wants it understood that he will try to get all the federal aid possible for Arkansas.

Faubus said in a campaign speech yesterday that Harry S. Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette, and other persons had criticized his acceptance of federal funds while he takes such an unyielding stand on the issue of states rights.

"I'm not a bit bashful about taking federal money," Faubus declared. "It was our money in the first place."

Besides Ashmore, a favorite target, Faubus fired some more shots at his offhime associate former Gov. Sid McMath.

In a talk at Wynne, Faubus referred to a speech McMath made recently in which the former governor castigated the third-term candidate.

Faubus remarked that McMath had said that the nation lives by the Bible and the Bill of Rights. "It can say some nice things," the governor commented sarcastically, "but I want to remind you that even the devil can quote Scripture."

Faubus suggested that McMath ought to study the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution which provides that powers not granted to the federal government are reserved to states.

"Since when has it ever been that a school built by local and state funds could be subdued and dominated by federal authorities?" asked the governor.

At Augusta, Faubus turned his campaign artillery on one of his Democratic gubernatorial opponents, Chris Finkbeiner.

He derided Finkbeiner's proposal to adopt the California plan of giving welfare payments to old persons without regard to age or residence.

Faubus said federal money went into the Arkansas welfare program and added, "Under the system in California you couldn't get one dime of federal mitching funds. We would have to cut from $48 to an average of $5 the grants to the old people."

Referring to Finkbeiner, Faubus then commented:

"That just goes to show you how much he knows about the financial affairs of state government."

Faubus also visited Parkin, McCrory, Cotton Plant and Brinkley and made an address at the dedication of new facilities at the Negro Girls Training School at Fargo.

Today his schedule was marked for trips to Batesville, Salem, Mammoth Spring, Hardy and Pocahontas.

Finkbeiner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chris Finkbeiner, campaigning hard in the last days of the gubernatorial race before the first Democratic primary, devoted some of his time yesterday to the issue of Arkansas Highway Commission appointments.

He has repeatedly warned voters that a third term for Gov. Orval Faubus would lead to a one-man domination of the commission's policies.

The Little Rock packing executive said at Batesville that if anyone thinks Faubus would keep the Highway Commission out of politics, he is indulging in "most wishful thinking."

Finkbeiner was introduced to a group of Batesville businessmen by former state Sen. V. A. Mack of Moorefield, co-author of the Mack-Blackwell Amendment, which was created to remove the Highway Commission from political control.

In a talk to the businessmen, Finkbeiner mentioned a statement by former Highway Commissioner Dan Portis of Lepanto, and quoted him as saying that if Faubus won re-nomination the governor would "leave the Highway Department alone."

Finkbeiner said Portis was a friend of his and a fine man, "but it appears he's being hoodwinked."

During his action-packed day, Finkbeiner also made handshaking tours of Moorefield, Magness, New Ark and Sulphur Rock.

Last night he flew to Fort Smith and today he plans visits in Sebastian County and a televised speech at Fort Smith at 9 p.m.

Finkbeiner paid a visit to a Negro Masonic meeting at Batesville. He told an audience that half of the 200 employees at his Little Rock meat packing plant were Negroes and that he was hoping to "build" rather than "tear down anybody," any individual or group of people.

Finkbeiner asked the Negroes to vote for him and said, "I need your help."

He said Negroes had helped elect

Ward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chancellor Lee Ward had to cancel scheduled campaign visits to east Arkansas today because the helicopter he travels in developed trouble last night.

Ward will spend the day in his headquarters at Little Rock.

A crowd waited for the Paragould candidate to land at Stuttgart last night but thinned when he failed to show up. Ward arrived by automobile.

Earlier he had visited Helena and De Witt.

In speeches yesterday, Ward drummed on the racial integration issue and his criticisms of Gov. Orval Faubus' handling of the Little Rock crisis last fall.

Ward reiterated that his solution to the problem through congressional action offered instilling legal settlement while Faubus proposed only "the road to blood."

At De Witt, when Ward had completed his talk a man walked up to him and asked: "What law did you say Gov. Faubus violated?"

"Friend," replied the chancellor, "I say that when Gov. Faubus stood the National Guard around Little Rock Central High School he violated the Arkansas constitution. He had no right to step in over the protest of the school board and the city."

"You are wrong, judge," retorted the man. "Faubus called out the police. Eisenhower called out—"

Apparently the questioner was distracted by someone in the audience at this point and went away without finishing his statement.

Several persons in the area Ward covered yesterday remarked to a newsmen that they didn't look too favorably on Faubus' tax program and expenditures but added that they owed him loyalty.

"We have got to back him up," one woman said, "or the world will say that Arkansas is for integration. We don't want that kind of idea to get around."

Ensl Arkansas is considered by some observers as a Faubus stronghold.

Tomorrow Ward's schedule calls for visits to West Memphis, Forrest City, Brinkley, Searcy and Pine Bluff. He plans to make a televised speech at the latter city.

If his helicopter isn't repaired by tomorrow, Ward intends to travel by plane or car.

A Hindu legend says that playing cards were invented by a maharajah's wife as a cure for his beard-pulling.

Faubus, and there was murmured agreement in the audience, "It's going to take your help to get him out," Finkbeiner said. "I promise you that, as governor, I will be a man of whom you can be proud."

100,000 Reds Hoot at U. S. Embassy

By ROY ESSOYAN

MOSCOW (AP)—A rowdy, raucous crowd estimated at number 100,000 hooted outside the U.S. Embassy today in a second day of demonstrations against the landing of Marines in Lebanon. An air rifle shot was fired through an embassy window but no one was hurt.

Six platoons of unarmed Soviet troops and a company of security troops appeared as the crowd swelled before the embassy. The mood of the crowd seemed to be growing increasingly violent as its numbers increased.

The crowd filled the 10-lane boulevard for a distance of half a mile, stretching from Insurrection Square on the left side of the embassy to the skyscraper Soviet Foreign Ministry building on the right.

Soviet employees of the embassy were sent home before the demonstration started. Embassy personnel cleared furniture out of front offices facing the street as a precautionary measure.

Traffic was tied up throughout downtown Moscow. Several streets leading to Insurrection Square were blocked off by Soviet militiamen to clear a traffic-free path for the marching demonstrators.

The columns overzerged from several directions and were made up of delegations from many Moscow factories and offices.

In Insurrection Square, about 200 yards from the embassy, a wooden platform with loudspeakers had been erected earlier.

As the demonstrators marched, they hooted and chanted anti-American slogans. Military music blared out of the loudspeakers on the platform and occasionally Communist party agitators seized a microphone and roared out anti-American slogans.

Directly in front of the embassy, about 200 Soviet militiamen, many of them in horse-drawn formations, stood in two lines. They pushed early arrivals to the opposite side of the street but permitted organized columns of demonstrators to march through their lines, right up in front of the embassy windows.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr. was in his ninth floor office when the demonstration

McLish Hurling Keeps Indians Out of Cellar

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If it hadn't been for Herb Spencer's arm trouble, the Cleveland Indians might, as Manager Lou Piniella contends, be second in the American League race.

As is, if it weren't for a guy with the improbable name of Calvin Coolidge McLish, the Indians would be dead last.

They're seventh now, only two games ahead of Washington. They've won only 7 of their last 15, and McLish was the winning pitcher in 5. And they've won but 3 of their last 10, with McLish, a 32-year-old right-hander who traveled the National League for years bagging all three.

He won his fifth in a row Thursday night, beating Washington 8-3 with the home run help of Rocky Colavito and Minnie Miñoso for an 8-5 record.

The New York Yankees, meanwhile, clipped Detroit 4-2 and played 12 games ahead of the second-place Boston Red Sox, who beat Kansas City 6-2. Baltimore defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-0 on Billy O'Dell's nine-hitter.

In the National League, Milwaukee rallied for an 8-7 victory at St. Louis. Second-place San Francisco came up with yet another ninth-inning surge to beat Philadelphia 8-7. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-2 and Los Angeles whipped Pittsburgh 5-3.

Hank Bauer's two-run triple capped a three-run sixth that bagged it for the Yankees. Art Dittmar (5-1) was the winner with Ryne Duren's relief. Billy Hoelt (7-9) lost it, failing to hold a 2-1 edge after Frank Boling's eighth homer for the Tigers.

The Red Sox won their fourth in a row with a five-run fifth that swept the three-game set from the A's. Frank Malzone's two-run single topped the big fifth as Tom Gorman (2-4) lost his third to the Sox. Tom Brewer won his fourth.

"I don't think a man can give up nothing but singles while out-dueling Billy Pierce (9-6). Brooks Robinson hit a solo homer for the Birds, who counted the other two on a passed ball and Bob Boyd's sacrifice fly.

TOWN TAMER

By FRANK GRUBER

Chapter XXV-1

"Kill Condon!" snarled Pell. "I don't care how you do it, with the law or without it, but..."

"Mr. Pell," Rosser said patiently, "I'll kill Condon. True, he's the head of the syndicate, but if I kill Condon, Ken Hud takes over and after him, Harrell Price, and the other saloonkeepers. They're in this for a last-ditch cleanup. You told me that yourself in St. Paul. You also told me that I had to handle the job without the aid of the law..."

"Where do you think Josh Moody is right now?"

"The clerk said he was attending a meeting."

"Moody's attending a meeting of the vigilantes."

"Get to their meeting," snarled Pell. "Get to their meeting right this minute. Stop them. That's the one thing we can't have here. Word of their formation gets East..."

"Mr. Pell," said Rosser, "I doubt if you could stop the vigilantes at this stage."

"I mean it," Pell said fiercely. "Stop them, or so help me..."

Rosser pulled his arm free of the railroad magnate's grip, walked past him and went out the door.

He crossed the street to the unfinished saloon where he had been on trial for his life only the day before. A man wearing a revolver at his belt was leaning against the front door. As Rosser came up, he straightened.

"Sorry, Mr. Rosser," he said. "You can't go in."

"I've been asked to join," Rosser snapped.

"The man regarded him suspiciously. 'Who asked you?'"

"Doc Kent, Josh Moody."

"I got orders to let no one in."

"Stand aside."

The man glowered at Rosser, stepped to the right, Rosser pushed past him, opened the door.

In the room, seated on benches, were more than 20 men. Most of them were faces that Rosser had seen around town, merchants.

Dr. Kent sat at the "judge's" bench. He was the first to see Rosser and said loudly, "Rosser!"

Every head in the room turned. Dr. Kent said, as Rosser approached, "You're finally throwing in with us."

"No," said Rosser, "I'm here to stop you."

"Don't try that," Dr. Kent snapped.

Behind Rosser, Josh Moody sprang to his feet.

"Get out of here!" he cried.

Rosser turned and faced the vigilantes. "I know as well as everyone here what happened this afternoon, what's been going on all day. You've let yourselves be blamed. You let Condon's crowd rig an election on you. You weren't interested enough at the time..."

"Hold on," cried Charlie Hodder. "That's pretty rough, Jan. Ruage."

"It is. But you're the so-called respectable people of this town. You're the ones that'll be running it when all of this is over and forgotten. That is, you'll be running it if you don't get down to their level. Your kind of people can't fight fire with fire."

"They did it in Virginia City," said Dr. Kent.

"That was 22 years ago," retorted Rosser.

"It didn't hurt Colonel Sanders," Josh Moody yelled. "He headed the Virginia City Vigilantes and became the first United States senator from Montana."

"You're the mayor of Grant Plains," Rosser went on, "but you won't even be that if you go ahead with your plan."

Wendell Lewis got to his feet. "Mr. Rosser, I'm getting tired of listening to you. I heard you last night and I heard you a couple of nights ago. I don't know what your game is."

"I have no game," Rosser said. "You're a gunfighter, Rosser. Why'd you come to this town?"

"That has nothing to do with this."

"Perhaps it has," said Dr. Kent. "You came here to kill Riley Condon, didn't you?"

"I've made no secret of that," said Rosser grimly. "I'm going to kill him, but I'm going to kill him legally."

"There's no law in this town," Kent snapped. "You found that out yesterday."

"That's the point I'm trying to make," said Rosser. "You people are the respectable ones of this community. It's up to you to make the laws, elect the proper public officials. All right, you got hooked into a rigged election. But you can undo that. Start a recall movement..."

"That takes time, days, weeks," snapped Josh Moody. "We haven't got the time."

"The five men who were killed this afternoon," Rosser said, "they took the law into their own hands..."

Dr. Kent banged his fist on the plank before him. "Gentlemen," he said loudly, "Mr. Rosser's a very eloquent man when he wants to be, but he's also a very inconsistent man. We asked him to join this group. He refused. I now ask for a voice vote. Do you want him to remain—or do you want him to leave?"

An almost unanimous roar of "leave" went up.

"Rosser," the doctor announced, "you heard the opinion. We want you to leave"—his mouth twisted sardonically—"unless you want to try your gun on us..."

Rosser turned abruptly and walked out of the unfinished saloon.

Giants Have Copped 16 in 9th Inning

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The names are different and some of the finesse may be lacking, but San Francisco has revived those late-inning thrillers that were such a big hit for the Giants in '51 and '54, their last pennant years.

The Giants, hanging in there, half a game behind Milwaukee in the National League race, have won 16 games in the last inning. That's a third of their 47 victories.

On their current home stand, they've won 9 of 12, winning 6 by one run and 3 of those with ninth-inning rallies.

They beat Philadelphia 8-7 with three in the ninth Thursday. Two came in on Orlando Cepeda's double, but the clincher came home on a bases-loaded wild pitch.

Milwaukee stayed a wink ahead of the Giants by giving the skidding St. Louis Cardinals another shove, 8-7. Cincinnati side-tracked the third-place Chicago Cubs 3-2. Los Angeles hammered Pittsburgh 11-3.

In the American League, the New York Yankees stayed 12 games ahead with a 4-2 decision over Detroit. Second-place Boston beat Kansas City 6-2. Baltimore defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-0 on Billy O'Dell's nine-hitter, and Cleveland defeated Washington 8-3.

The Giants, who stand 15-17 in one-run decisions, got rolling after the Phils broke a 5-5 tie with two runs in the ninth off reliever Dan Johnson, called back to the majors from Toronto the night before. The Phils' ace reliever Dick Farrell, now 6-3, lost his second to the Giants with a couple of walks that Cepeda converted into runs, two more that loaded the bases and then an errant 1-2 pitch to pinch-hitter Hank Sauer.

The Braves won their fourth in a row despite Stan Musial's five and pushed him past Lou Gehrig into the No. 2 spot behind Babe Ruth in the all-time extra-base hit list. Del Crandall and Wes Covington homered for the Braves, who beat reliever Jim Brosnan (7-7) on Mel Roach's single in the seventh. Lew Burdette (9-7), working in relief, blanked the Cads on three hits for five innings.

The Redlegs, who had lost seven in a row in a plunge to seventh place, scored two on Frank Robinson's 11th homer, then got the winner on Roy McMillan's single, an error and an infield out. Joe Nuxhall (6-5) lasted through a 10-hit pitching job. Dave Hillman (2-1) lost it.

The Dodgers made it on homers by Gino Cunliff. Don Zimmer and Gil Hodges that scored all but one of their runs. Rookie Stan Williams won his sixth, but needed relief help after Hank Foites homered ended his shutout string at 19 innings in the seventh and Bob Clemente belted a two-run homer in the eighth. Rookie George Witt (2-2) lost it.

News Briefs

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP)—Six-year-old Robert Haughey of nearby Sky Terrace, Pa., knocked at the door of a rural home, asked for a glass of water, then asked to be taken home. It ended search of 5,000 persons for the boy. He had covered 18 miles in an all-day walk.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two young Catholic seminary students who traveled 1,000 miles by bicycle to Quebec, Canada, are willing and ready to set out again sometime—despite the hills. Paul S. Brodie, 17, of Pittsburgh, and John T. 17, of East Brady, Pa., studying at St. Fidelis College and seminary, both agreed: "The toughest part was the hills."

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—Two teenagers in the county's new all-steel bridge, through a cement wall with bent tin cup as a chisel had been detected electronically a day before they were told to stop toward another cell, anyway.

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—Adrian Robertson, 45, is resting up from a 1,000-mile walk from Little Rock, Ark. He figures his actual walking time was 52 days, not counting time for corresponding with a widow he met during the shoe-testing jaunt for his footwear employer.

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Fagerstown cops now have the word: No smoking or newspaper reading in public while on duty. "It doesn't look good for a man to be directing traffic with a cigar or pipe," said the order from Police Chief Blair P. Overton, nor to see two men riding in a police car with one of them reading a newspaper.

ALAMOSA, Colo. (AP)—Walter E. Morgan's draw may be fast, but his trigger finger is faster. The 28-year-old Pueblo man shot himself in the thigh while demonstrating his quick draw. The bullet lodged near the knee. Morgan, whose performance was given before two companions, was taken to an Alamosa hospital.

DALLAS (AP)—Technicians installed an oscillator, an amplifier and a four-speaker system on City Hall, trying to frequencies that would drive away pigeons. Who first tried, the solitary pigeon in sight took off—but only to return with three more. "When tone frequency is cut down low enough to chase the pigeons, it hurts our own ears," said H. S. Garland, building engineer.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP)—Sheriff Kelsie Reeler thought he had children crying in a nearby wooded area surrounded by flood waters from the Grand River. He got a rowboat and investigated, but found no children. The sheriff did find two kids standing on a floating log. He rescued both young goats.

3-Year Span on Reciprocal Trade Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Backers of reciprocal trade appeared ready to accept a three-year extension in the Senate and try for more in a conference with the House.

This was one of several points of strategy considered in an effort to win passage of a bill meeting most of President Eisenhower's requests. The House has voted a live-year extension of the program, as Eisenhower asked. Other Senate showstoppers also may be avoided as part of the same strategy.

Behind-the-scenes strategy being worked out by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), floor manager for the bill, and Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) called for only one major floor amendment before final passage. The plans were understood to cover these points:

1. A floor vote to knock out of the bill a provision inserted by the Senate Finance Committee.

Gives Birth to Daughter in Car

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Mrs. Jenie Fieldus, 28, gave birth to a girl in the front seat of her car plumb in the middle of a busy intersection Thursday night.

Her husband slammed on the brakes when she said her time had come.

Police halted all traffic, and four of them assisted at the birth. Cars were held up for more than half an hour.

Mother and daughter were later taken to Paterson General Hospital, where both were reported doing fine.

America Needs His Qualities
Gov. Orval E. Faubus stands today as the nation's staunchest defender of States' Rights.
The Arkansas governor's defiance of federal dictatorship—his refusal to deliver his state into the hands of professional interracists—has endeared him not only to his own people, but to independent Americans in all parts of the nation.
The South, particularly, is indebted to Governor Faubus, for it is the South which is the major stronghold against sinister forces marching across America under the protection of a misguided President and a socialistic Supreme Court.
It is for these reasons that free-thinking Americans everywhere are looking to the citizens of Arkansas to return Governor Faubus to office for a third term July 29.
Re-election of Governor Faubus will take him a step closer to the position of national leadership which he seems destined to occupy. Americans seeking to throw off the yoke of federal persecution will be looking for men of his calibre to carry the States' Rights banner in elections two years from now.
While he is held in warm esteem throughout Arkansas, Governor Faubus' quest for a third term is not without its hurdles. There are powerful forces seeking to defeat him.
The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People hates him. Renegade segments of the press in his own state despise him. Leftist newspapers and magazines of the North and East have sent insulting, boorish representatives into Arkansas to harass and ridicule him. But he towers above these foes. He rejects their attacks with calmness, courage, modesty and truth. He has other detractors, too. He is opposed by two other candidates for the governorship, both of whom have belittled his record and accused him of insincerity. He is a rare man, indeed, if he does not possess at least a few of the shortcomings of which he has been accused. But no criticisms of Governor Faubus, valid or otherwise, can outweigh the factors on his side. He is the man who refused to surrender his state to judicial crackpots. He is the man who refused to bow to Presidential dictatorship. He is the man who refused to be frightened by President Eisenhower's bayonet rule! These qualities of Governor Faubus are qualities the South needs—qualities that all America needs! They are qualities which Arkansas citizens cherish and which we believe they will preserve.

ORVAL E. FAUBUS
